Venn Promotes Layson Davis, Lanza, Bariahtaris and Bowlin

WASHINGTON DC – Venn Strategies, LLC, a leading national public affairs and government relations firm, announced today it had promoted Jessica Layson Davis to Vice President, Mike Lanza to Associate Vice President, Andrew Bariahtaris to Senior Associate and Lizzie Bowlin to Office Manager.

Layson Davis, a skillful coalition manager and an expert in health care and economic policy, joined Venn in 2014 as part of the firm's growing health policy and advocacy group, where she works on an array of coalition efforts as well as with corporate clients to help them bolster their efforts with third party organizations. Formerly, she was Legislative Director for Rep. Austin Scott (R-GA) and led Congressional and Political affairs for the American Academy of Physician Assistants. Lanza works with the firm's economic and financial services policy team orchestrating advocacy programs and Hill strategies for the firm's several financial service focused clients. He previously worked in the office of House GOP Conference Chair McMorris Rodgers and brings to the firm a strong background in how Capitol Hill operates and an insider's knowledge of House Republicans and where the Conference is headed. Bariahtaris, an expert in coalition management and economic policy, joined the firm in 2015. Bowlin, who joined the firm in 2014, has become essential in ensuring the smooth operation of the office.

"Jessica, Mike, Andrew and Lizzie represent the best of our firm and the value we work hard to bring to our clients day in and day out," said Venn CEO and founder Stephanie Silverman. "It's exciting to be able to recognize their exceptional abilities and I have no doubt they will support the firm's continued growth in the years to come."
