Venn Adds New Senior Talent Critical Infrastructure, Health & Tax Teams Continue to Grow

WASHINGTON, DC –Venn Strategies, a nationally recognized public affairs and government relations firm twice named among the fastest-growing private companies in the United States (the “Inc. 5000”), announced that Bennett Resnik has joined as a Senior Vice President in its growing critical infrastructure practice, and that John Richter has joined as an Assistant Vice President in the Health practice.

Resnik, an environmental attorney by training and an expert in transportation, energy, and infrastructure development policy, joins Venn from Cardinal Infrastructure, where he was counsel and director of government relations. He has also been a Law Clerk in the Office of the General Counsel at the Department of Energy and served in the office of Congresswoman Carolyn Maloney (D-NY). At Venn, he will leverage his deep policy and political expertise to support the work of Venn’s growing electric vehicle battery critical infrastructure practice subspeciality along with advocating for Wabtec Corporation on Capitol Hill and within the Transportation and Energy Departments.

Venn founder and CEO Stephanie Silverman said of the addition of Resnik, “Our diverse Critical Infrastructure practice has seen dramatic growth as our firm’s policy and political expertise has expanded, particularly in the transportation and battery materials sectors. Adding Bennett’s deep policy expertise and superlative relationships across Congress and the Executive Branch creates new and exceedingly valuable competencies for our clients and our firm.”

Richter joins Venn from his position as an Advocacy and Engagement Specialist with the American Nurses Association, where he was key to the association’s advocacy work. He also served on the health legislative staff for Senator Bob Casey (D-PA) and former-Congresswoman, now Governor Michelle Lujan Grisham (D-NM), and was on the staff of the Biden Presidential campaign in Pennsylvania.

As Silverman added, “Venn’s Health practice is unparalleled, and John is a terrific fit with our growing team. Our clients will immediately benefit from his work in, and understanding of, complex policy and political issues affecting patients, providers, and medical innovators.”

Along with the news of Resnik’s and Richter’s additions to the firm, the Management Team also announced it has promoted two staff members -- Samantha Campbell and Kate Rice -- to the positions of Associate. Campbell has joined the Health practice, while Rice has joined the Tax & Financial Services practice.
