Venn's Growth Continues with Four Team Additions

WASHINGTON, DC – Venn Strategies, a nationally recognized public affairs and government relations firm twice named among the fastest-growing private companies in the United States (the "Inc. 5000"), announced that four new team members have joined the firm. The expansion deepens the firm's communications and research competencies for its clients, whose needs continue to expand.

Nicolas Blanco Ballesteros has joined the firm as an Associate, managing the expanding communications portfolio of the firm's largest client, Employee-Owned S Corporations of America (ESCA). Nick joins Venn from his role as communications associate at the nonprofit organization Poder Latinx and has also worked at the national public affairs firm SKDK.

Natalie Castonguay also joined Venn as executive assistant to the CEO and President. Natalie served as an executive assistant with Longwell Partners and previously worked in the office of Congressman Dutch Ruppersberger (D-MD).

Venn also welcomed two new Client Service Associates, Isabelle Delaney and Nichole Espineli, to expand its research team. Isabelle previously worked at Susan Davis International, while Nichole brings experience from working at the House Committee on Agriculture and as a research assistant for the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health.

"We are thrilled to welcome Nick, Natalie, Isabelle and Nichole to the team," said Venn Strategies founder and CEO Stephanie Silverman. "They are already contributing to our culture and our deliverables, and we know they'll continue to enhance the exceptional service we provide to our clients."
